WHO WE ARE:

The Community Coalition for Children™ began in the fall of 1996, to serve the needs of families throughout the region. Our unique collaboration of schools, institutions, and community service organizations sponsors dynamic and informative presentations and Teen Summits to empower children and families to deal with issues that face us all.

MISSION:

To be a catalyst for collaborative efforts to create, sponsor and endorse educational and social programs designed to help children thrive.

SOME OF OUR GOALS:

Connect and collaborate in partnership with public schools, independent and alternative schools, community organizations, and concerned individuals to improve children's lives.

Promote greater understanding and cooperation across communities, for the well-being of children, by addressing generational, cultural, socio-economic, racial, ethnic, and institutional barriers.

Jeff Wolfsberg

Jeff's early life reads like that of a typical teenager growing up in a middle class New England town. However, below the surface, he was coping with issues that afflict many of our students, including addiction.

Why drug and alcohol abuse education for parents and students? These issues are on the rise in our region, after some years of decline, and those who need good strategies and answers in order to abstain need our help.

Acknowledged as one of the world's leading authorities on school-based drug education, Jeff Wolfsberg has worked with more than 1500 of the world's finest independent secondary schools, colleges, and universities in enhancing their response to underage drinking, alcohol misuse, and teen drug abuse. He has appeared on many morning news shows and serves as an analyst for Fox News.

Jeff Wolfsberg's CD, "Mom, Did You Ever Try Drugs?" is full of practical advice for parents seeking to help their children navigate peer pressures and temptations. He provides answers that parents can make part of their parenting tool box and advocates coping with behaviors and decisions "one weekend at a time."

For students, Jeff Wolfsberg encourages age-appropriate dialogue about their challenges and decisions. Understanding that their brains are undergoing substantial change that makes rational approaches difficult, he helps them use their personal strengths as they wrestle with complex, emotionally-charged, life-shaping perspectives.

Caring adults are key components of the outcome. Come, be a part of the dialogue.
